

February 2006 Email Update

Dear Friends:

One of the fun things that happen when I am on home assignment is to be able to tell others about God's faithfulness while I am on the field. Well, God is faithful no matter where I am. Below is His recent demonstration of His love and faithfulness to me.

Recently, I was invited to speak before a group of children. I thought of sharing all the photos of our recent Christmas children's outreach at a park in Cuernavaca. I also thought of the candy cane illustration my pastor used to talk about Jesus. (Red for the blood, white for His purity and green for abundant life).

I looked all over the stores for candy canes but it was the middle of January and they were all gone. I decided to just forget about the illustration and think of something else. That same Saturday evening, I was attending a prayer meeting for some missionary friends preparing to go to China and as I entered the house, saw a jar of candy canes on the kitchen counter!!! I got so excited and shared with the hostess what I was planning to do. She told me to take all the candy canes I wanted. Isn't that exciting? God even provided the candy canes I needed to share truth to His children.

We do serve a faithful God! Praise His name!
